Policy 545-01: Electronic Collaboration

The market-driven complexity and integration capability of workgroup services products and systems have increased demands on system resources: processing power (speed and memory), operating system features and network bandwidth. Within the state, the necessary investment in workgroup services will receive requisite support only when it is clearly cost-justified in terms of service to the citizens.

OBJECTIVE:

The objective of this policy is to define the standards and infrastructure components that facilitate the interaction of the workforce and promote group productivity including e-mail, directory services, and other person-to-person or group collaboration tools through consolidated services.

SCOPE:

This policy applies to all state agencies, boards and commissions with the exception of the Legislative and Judicial branches. This policy does not apply to the Department of Education and other educational institutions.
